

SMITH IGNORES HIS CANDIDACY IN TWO TALKS

Addresses Two Fourth of July Gatherings, One at Tammany Hall, One of New Voters.

PASSING MENTION OF HIS NOMINATION

Letter From Governor Hardman on American Ideals Read at Tammany Meeting.

New York, July 4.—(P)—With only the briefest reference to his presidential candidacy, Governor Alfred E. Smith today delivered two patriotic addresses in his home town, the first public speeches he has made since his nomination.

In the first speech, at Tammany hall, he replied to "a great deal of enthusiastic criticism" of Tammany.

In the second, at New York's city hall tonight, he addressed several thousand new voters.

Klieg lights played about the nominee as he described the duties and privileges of citizenship to those who will cast their first votes at the November election.

"It is a surprising thing to know," he said, "how many people in this state and in this country are so indifferent to their citizenship and to the welfare of their commonwealth, or union of commonwealths, that they will not take the trouble to vote."

"The man who goes to a picnic on election day and uses that day as a week-end for entertainment cannot be said to have very much interest in his citizenship, because, after all, if officers, large and small, come up from the people."

Citizenship Duties.

Citizenship in this country, he said, proves again the old saying that "you never get anything for nothing," for the privileges of citizenship—certain duties and obligations, the greatest of which he described as the duty of casting the ballot.

Other of his obligations, he said, are to study the doctrines of the great national parties, their platforms and their promises.

The governor's only mention of his candidacy during either talk was just after his introduction at Tammany hall, where he recalled that he had been "nominated" many times before the "reunion convention" by "my masters at banquets, and by others at christenings, weddings" and a "multitude of other occasions."

L. G. Hardman, governor of Georgia, who had been invited to speak at the Tammany hall meeting, declined in a letter that was read at the meeting, because of the pressure of state business.

Defends Tammany.

The democratic candidate for the presidency was the principal speaker at the annual Tammany celebration, as he was, later in the evening, at a gathering of new voters at the city hall.

"Can anything live in this country 130 years that is not all right?" he asked in detailing the virtues of Tammany. In this invitation, he said, was in strictest conformity with what the Declaration of Independence has to say about the equality of man.

Democracy of Tammany.

"We do not care," he said, "whether he is rich or whether he is poor, whether he walks up to Tammany hall or whether he comes up to it in an automobile. We care not what his station in life may be, we care nothing about his religious belief."

At this point the audience which jammed the old hall that was once used for a national convention broke into prolonged applause and the governor mopped his forehead.

"We only want to know one thing."

ICE AGAIN BLOCKS EFFORT TO RESCUE LOST ITALIA CREW

Russ Ice-Breaker Halted Less Than 50 Miles From Hapless Men Marooned on Floe.

Rome, July 4.—(P)—The Russian ice-breaker Krassin Krassin, seeking to rescue the marooned members of the dirigible Italia's crew from their floating refuge near Foyt Is., again has been halted by huge masses of ice, says a message from the base ship, Citta di Milano.

In the meantime, the floe in which the men are huddled is drifting westward, having reached tonight a position five miles west of that reported yesterday. Thus the rescue vessel and the men it hopes to save are less than 50 miles apart.

A new effort to pick up the six marooned men, this time by means of a light "moth" airplane, will be made from Esmeralda island, nine miles from their reported position. This will be made under the auspices of the Swedish expedition and the big tri-masted Upland plane will shortly head for the island to establish an operations base.

New motors for the two Italian seaplanes which have been used in rescue attempts arrived today aboard the Citta di Milano, which probably will put into Kirs Bay to effect the change of engines.

The Italian plane Marina I left Tromsø, Norway, for North Cape in an endeavor to confirm rumors that fishermen had found Capt. A. Raul Amundsen and his comrades, missing since they set out more than two weeks ago to search for the members of the Italia's crew. It was unable to reach that point, however, because of adverse weather and sea conditions, and was forced to return.

It is hoped that the plane will be renewed as soon as conditions permit.

HOPE RENEWED AT KING'S BAY.

Kings Bay, July 4.—(P)—Hope to find the quick rescue of the five stranded members of the Italia's crew and their fellow castaway, Lieutenant Lundborg, flamed anew with reports of consistent progress by the powerful Russian ice-breaker Krassin.

The Krassin was last reported in the vicinity of Cape Platen, about 55 miles west of the camp near Foyt Is., and making about three knots an hour in its progress toward the ice-marooned men. There was hope that it would reach them comparatively within reach of those they are seeking to aid.

Flying conditions continue adverse, with fog holding up trips to those on the ice.

In the meantime the search for Amundsen and those with him is proceeding with the Norwegian aviators Leutzow Holm and Riiser-Larsen are awaiting an opportunity to join the sealer Hobbly, which has been donated by its American owner for the search.

On board the Citta di Milano it was said General Noble's condition continued bad, with worry over his comrades and the failure of his expedition preventing as rapid recuperation as his doctors had hoped would be the case.

Chicago, July 4.—It took a hook and snare more than half an hour to free two-year-old Marvin Smith from a water pipe, where one foot had become wedged. Firemen rescued a section of sidewalk and dug up ground for four feet around the pipe. Police kept back nearly 1,000 persons.

MESSAGE HEARD BY S. S. IONIC STAR

Plane Was Seen Several Hours Earlier Passing Cape Verde Islands, Off African Coast.

London, July 4.—(P)—The steamship Ionic Star radioed to The Associated Press at 10:15 p. m., Greenwich time, that it had received a message from the Savoia plane, in which Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major Carlo P. Del Prete are attempting a nonstop flight from Italy to Brazil, saying that all was well.

Greater New York, with millions of residents crowding the beaches to full capacity, probably had the lowest comparative casualty list. Automobile accidents and drownings took at least eight lives in the New York area.

Six deaths were reported in New England and four in the Rocky Mountain area—one a school boy killed when a truck loaded with children plunged from a mountain road.

The Pacific coast area reported seven deaths during the day.

Scattered points reported a number of other fatal accidents.

TEN ARE INJURED IN CRASH OF BUS. Morrilton, Ark., July 4.—(P)—Ten persons were injured, three seriously, when a bus carrying about 15 students of the State Teachers' college at Conway turned over near here this afternoon.

FOUR ARE DROWNED AS BOAT CAPSIZES. Eastport, Me., July 4.—(P)—Four men were drowned and a fifth had a narrow escape from a similar fate here today when a boat in which they were rowing was overturned in the back wash of a speeding launch.

Persons who witnessed the accident from the beach were able to rescue one of the men. He was unconscious and unable to reveal his identity or that of his companions. Bodies of two of the men were recovered and police were dragging the waters for the other victims.

BATHING ACCIDENTS CLAIM SIX LIVES. Boston, July 4.—(United News.)—Bathing accidents took a toll of six lives in New England today; while two persons were killed in motorcycle accidents.

Accusations from "night before" celebrations early today included the brutalities of three persons in a melee at Lowell, Mass., while several persons received injuries in minor accidents.

At Nutting lake, Billerica, Mass., Miss Helen Lucas, 16, of Chelsea, lost her life by drowning, carrying James Riely, of Cambridge, with her.

Man in Rubber Ball Bounces Over Niagara

Air-Tight Sphere Saves Inmate; Comes Out Smiling at Feet.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 4.—(United News.)—Jean Laussier, a French-Canadian, of Springfield, Mass., went over Niagara Falls late today in a huge rubber ball and was fished out of the lower river smiling. The trip started at 4:15 p. m., about a quarter mile upstream and ended 15 minutes later a quarter mile below the falls.

Laussier made the trip in a sphere 11 feet in diameter. The sphere was made of rubber, with a steel framework inside and straps to hold the passenger in place. It was weighted at the bottom to keep it upright.

The sphere was placed in the river above the falls. Laussier entered it, and it was sealed with tape. Ten minutes later the huge ball—It was painted red—bounced for a second time over the falls and then was hurled over and down. It disappeared in the river but came to the surface a few moments later.

William Hill fished the ball from the river below the falls and towed it to shore behind a rowboat. When the seals were broken, Laussier stuck out his head, a grin on his face.

"It was fine," he said. "And I'm not hurt."

A big crowd saw the feat. The ball was filled with enough oxygen to last Laussier 40 minutes.

FIFTY PERSONS DIE AS FOURTH BELGIAN CROESUS BELIEVED DROWNED AFTER ACCIDENTAL FALL FROM PLANE OVER SEA

Uniform System of Traffic Laws Will Be Proposed

Ten National Groups To Work Out Model Plan of Controlling Autos in Big Cities of United States.

Washington, July 4.—(United News.)—Representatives of 10 national organizations will meet here Thursday, Friday and Saturday to discuss traffic conditions and promote the adoption of uniform traffic laws in all cities of the country.

A model system of traffic regulations developed by the department of commerce and the United States Chamber of Commerce will be offered to cities and towns throughout the country.

"The question of traffic regulation has become a national problem to be dealt with in a nation-wide way," A. B. Barber, director of the national conference on street and highway safety, said.

Importance Evident. "The importance of the problem is evident. In the last 15 years 200,000 persons have met death on our streets and highways. Since 1920 the accident rate has gone up practically 10 per cent every year. The present annual death toll is 25,000. Beyond these appalling losses we find a loss of human and material wastes, realignments of business conditions and the necessity for radical readjustment which demand unceasing attention. Only by concerted effort and systematic, organized control can this stupendous traffic problem be met."

William B. Metzger, of Detroit, is chairman of the committee on municipal traffic ordinances and regulations. Among the more difficult questions the committee will take up Thursday are:

The extent to which the designation of one-way streets and park restrictions and prohibitions shall be incorporated in the ordinance; working of right-of-way rules at intersections; the control of pedestrian traffic; meaning of differently colored lights in traffic signal systems.

The committee on uniformity of laws and regulations of which General Nathan William Chesney, of Chicago, is chairman will meet July 6 in order to harmonize the provisions of the model state code and the model ordinance.

The 10 participating organizations are: American Automobile association, American Electric Railway association, American Mutual alliance, American Railway association, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, National Association of Taxicab Owners, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, National Research council, National Safety council.

Superior, Wis., July 4.—(P)—President Coolidge celebrated today his fifty-sixth birthday on the sunny Brule with newspapermen and press photographers as his only guests. With them he shared his birthday cake and allowed them to follow him on a fishing trip and partake of his triumph in a plentiful catch.

Newspapermen and photographers had been told to be at Cedar Island lodge early. President Coolidge was awaiting them, wearing a ten-gallon hat, ed-striped macintosh, khaki breeches and high-laced boots. Canoes had been provided for all, John L. Loeck, Mr. Coolidge's Indian guide, keeping guard over one reserved for the choice of the executives.

President Lewis Way. Losing no time after the arrival of his guests, Mr. Coolidge waved goodbye to Mrs. Coolidge and to his son, John, who were sitting on the porch steps, and led the way, paddled by Larock, up the stream, across a couple of little lakes into a bigger pool of clear water periodically disturbed by the breaking of trout.

The reporters and photographers, surprised at the unexpected treat allowed them, were slow in getting started. Mr. Coolidge, impatient to get to his fishing, cried across the water to his Indian guide to take the visitors for a night-seeing trip and barbecue at Stone Mountain.

USES WRONG DOOR IN PRIVATE PLANE; STEPS OVERBOARD

Pilot, Ignorant of Mishap, Continues Hop But Is Forced Down Near Brussels.

SHIP FLYING OVER ENGLISH CHANNEL

Lowenstein Was Famous for Loan Offer to Belgium; Visited United States Recently.

London, July 5.—(United News.)—One of the world's richest men apparently went to death last night in one of the most unusual accidents in history—accidentally stepping overboard from his private airplane as it was flying over the English channel.

According to the British air ministry, Captain Albert Lowenstein, of Belgium, a multi-millionaire who started the world by offering to loan his government $50,000,000 without interest for two years, apparently has been drowned in the channel.

His pilot, unmindful of what had happened, continued on toward Brussels but was compelled to make a forced landing just outside the city. Then it was that he discovered Lowenstein was missing from the plane.

Lowenstein, according to the air ministry, set out from London Wednesday for Brussels, starting the trip in his palatial airplane, one of the most commodious private planes ever built.

While flying over the English channel, Lowenstein is believed to have started from one compartment of the plane, intending to enter the retiring room. Apparently he opened the wrong door and stepped overboard, plunging into the sea.

Captain Lowenstein, who visited the United States recently, and made an airplane tour of the principal cities of the east and midwest, perhaps was best known for his offer to the Belgian government of a $50,000,000 loan for two years without interest in order that the Belgian franc might be stabilized.

Lowenstein, whose offer was refused by the Belgian cabinet, shot like a meteor across the horizon of European finance a few years after the world war. Leaving Brussels for London, he built a modest fortune into one of the largest financial concerns in the world, but abandoned public life with consistent success until 1926.

Then the newspapers found out about his success and he became another "Croesus," whose fortune rivaled that of Hugo Stinnes and whose affairs reached into every corner of the world. He was like Stinnes—a tireless worker; a human dynamo.

The reporters found many colorful events in his life and many unique habits in his every day labor. He dictated letters while shaving; his meals were occasions for discussion of business with men powerful in finance; from morning until night and often times far into the night he had secretaries and stenographers at his elbow while he carried on his business.

Aviation was one of his greatest hobbies and it became one of his greatest business assets. With a corps of 40 secretaries he commuted from London to Brussels and back.

HEFLIN STANDS UP NEW YORK'S KLAN

New York, July 4.—(AP)—Elaborate preparations were made by members of the Ku Klux Klan today to insure protection to Senator Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama, who was scheduled to address a Klan meeting at Jamaica, but who failed to arrive or to notify the klansmen that he was not coming until after the time set for his appearance.

Early this morning an estimated crowd of 1,500 klansmen gathered in a 40-acre field. Many of them were armed with pistols, clubs and sabres, which they said were for use in protecting the southern senator from persons who had sent many threatening letters.

Police reported that nothing could be done about the show of firearms as all the men with guns were deputy sheriffs or had obtained permits to carry pistols from justices of the peace.

Klan leaders announced that they had leased the field and would permit no trespassing by police, but all day about 200 policemen waited at the edge of the field in case they should be needed. An emergency wagon also was on hand with riot guns and tear gas bombs.

The time was taken up with various ceremonies and it was not until late afternoon that word was received that Senator Hefflin was in Toledo and had decided not to attend the meeting. His tardy declaration was the second from prominent persons invited to address the gathering. Last week Governor Smith, against whom Senator Hefflin has launched numerous attacks in public addresses, was asked to be a speaker but he immediately declined, saying that he already had two speaking engagements for the day and that was enough.

HEFLIN SURPRISED AT KLAN AFFAIR.

Jackson, Mich., July 4.—(AP)—Senator Thomas J. Hefflin expressed surprise tonight when he learned that a large gathering of Ku Klux Klansmen had turned out at Jamaica, N. Y. today in the belief that he was to speak there. The senator, who addressed a similar meeting here today, declared he had not been booked for a Jamaica address.

"I was booked to appear in Jackson two weeks ago, and am at a loss to explain the affair," the senator said. "I recall having received an invitation to appear at Jamaica July 4, while I was in Albany, N. Y., recently. I told the official who extended the invitation that I was unable to accept as I was booked for Jackson on that date. I had received several other invitations for July 4 addresses, but likewise declined owing to the previous local engagement."

Eleven Are Injured When Southern Pacific Train Jumps Track

San Francisco, July 4.—(AP)—Eleven persons were injured, two seriously, when Southern Pacific passenger train No. 78, the Bay Shore Limited, was derailed at Bay Shore, south of here today. The engineer, John Weir, of San Jose, and the fireman, George Miller, of San Francisco, were burned and probably internally injured. The others were suffering from shock and slight injuries. The engine, baggage car and the first coach left the rails.

It was believed that a switch was set against the speeding train, causing it to leave the tracks. The train was filled with holiday visitors.

VANDERBILT'S NEW WIFE IOWA GIRL

Chicago, July 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Weir Logan, who divorced her husband recently and was married yesterday at Reno, Nev., to Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell Weir, of Davenport, Iowa.

The marriage of Miss Weir and Logan took place in 1920 in Chicago, where Logan is a member of the brokerage firm of Logan and Bryan, headed by his father, Frank C. Logan. In 1921 Mr. and Mrs. Logan went to Hollywood. While there Mrs. Logan charged in her divorce action, he remained away from home several nights and refused to explain his absence.

Vanderbilt passed through Chicago several days ago, at which time he placed $1,000,000 in trust for the benefit of stockholders in his defunct newspaper enterprises.

Smith Republican Club Opens Headquarters In New York City

Albany, N. Y., July 4.—(AP)—A "Smith republican" club has opened headquarters in this city in the office of William A. Humphrey, a republican and a close friend of Governor Smith. Mr. Humphrey announced the purpose of the organization as the winning of independent or republican votes for the governor.

"I cannot tell whether we shall try nation-wide campaigning," he said, "but no campaigning will be made in conjunction with democratic committees. We are not interested in the party; we are interested in the man."

MORROW RETURNS TO MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, July 4.—(AP)—Having returned from a vacation in the United States on a train guarded by 50 federal soldiers armed with machine guns, Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador, was here today to help the American colony celebrate Independence day.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to guard Mr. Morrow as he traveled from the border to Mexico City. Numerous attempts to wreck trains had been made in the vicinity of Queretaro recently, but the ambassador's train came through safely. He said that the trip was uneventful.

El Universal today published an editorial in which it read:

"The foreigner who comes to live with us, to share what we enjoy and what we have to endure, to make his home here, to combine his interest with ours—this foreigner will find us welcoming him with open arms and calling him brother."

"Mexico wants the most friendly and cordial relations with all the nations of the world. We want to have our international relations established upon the basis of mutual respect. We want any conflicts that arise to be solved by justice alone. These are our ideals."

GOOD CONSIDERS POST OF WESTERN G. O. P. MANAGER

Chicago, July 4.—(AP)—James Good, who successfully directed efforts to obtain Herbert Hoover's nomination for the presidency, was back in Chicago today after a visit with President Coolidge in Wisconsin, undetermined as to whether he would become republican western manager.

Various party leaders, including Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the national committee, have besought Good to continue his activities in behalf of Hoover.

Good did not know when he would make known a decision.

NEBRASKA STORM TEARS UP TREES; IOWA ALSO HIT

Omaha, Neb., July 4.—(United News)—Telephone and telegraph communication suffered severely; trees were uprooted and damage to farm property was reported throughout Nebraska and parts of Iowa by a severe windstorm which struck the two states today.

Sharp lightning, accompanying the 60-mile gale, struck trees and house chimneys but no deaths or injuries were reported.

Wires of the A. T. & T. company were hit hardest in this section. A heavy rain accompanied the wind.

The fast Chicago-Deaver train No. 10 on the Burlington road, arrived here at the height of the storm and was held for 45 minutes until the wind had abated.

The rain brought some relief from the heat in Omaha and surrounding territory.

RESTORED LOUVAIN LIBRARY DEDICATED

Louvain, Belgium, July 4.—(AP)—With elaborate ceremonial the restored library of Louvain university was dedicated today with many mutual expressions of Belgian-American friendship and regard. There was no regrettable incident arising from the recent dispute over the hanged Latin inscription but the dedication ceremonies were held without the presence of the architect, Whitney Warren, who had gone to Italy apparently to avoid what might have been an embarrassing situation.

There was a large gathering of Belgian high clergy, representatives of Belgian and foreign universities in their academic robes with college symbols and banners and other distinguished persons. A number of honorary diplomas in political and applied sciences were conferred on United States Ambassador Hugh Gibson, Edgar Rickard, of New York, Millard

King Shaler, former member of the Belgian relief commission, and E. H. Tuck, philanthropist. Similar degrees in philosophy and letters were conferred upon Fernand C. Gelpin and members of the committee of American Education Foundation.

Among the most noted of the guests were Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid and Cardinal Vanroy.

Monsignor P. Ladeuze, rector of the university, at the dinner that followed the formal dedication ceremony, paid homage to the American donors of the library and to what he characterized as Architect Warren's "masterly memorial building." Finally those present joined in a rising tribute to the pope and King Albert.

White or Fancy Broadcloth Collars Attached

One Dollar and Eighty-five Cent Broadcloth Shirts for... 99c

(With collar attached and detached, plain white, striped or fancy rayon silk stripes.)

They are made by Phillips-Jones Corp. and Appollo Shirt Co., of N. Y. City, and everybody knows that the Phillips-Jones Corp. are the makers of world-famous shirts and Van Heusen collars.

The keen eye of the inspector did not pass these 2,400 shirts as perfect, but if you find a damaged shirt in the lot you can have it for nothing. Part is, men, I bought these shirts to sell for one dollar and thirty-five cents, and they are mighty good values at that 'cause they are worth $1.85, but the dog-gone shirts were two weeks on the road from N. Y. to Atlanta and didn't get here for my Fourth of July trade, so I just got mad and made up my mind to sell 'em for 99c a shirt. You certainly won't wear that old darned-up shirt of yours when you can get one of these $1.85 shirts today for 99c.

Don't compare this 99c shirt sale with basement sales or "seconds." They were made upon honor to sell for $1.85 retail and there is not a skimped cut shirt in the lot. Sleeve lengths 33 to 36 inches.

Remember, I SPEAK THE TRUTH and am signing my name to this advertisement, which means we will refund the money to any man who brings a shirt back if not satisfactory. See the big window display at my Forsyth Street Store near the postoffice.

I'll match this malt against 'em all... regardless!

Whenever a customer whose trade I don't want to lose asks me which is the best malt to buy, I say: "Budweiser."

Of course, I can't give any premiums with Bud or any cans free for a few labels. There's too much real quality in the product for that. BUT...

Every can that goes out of my store makes a real friend for me... and friends come back to buy again.

Macon Woman Delegate Scouts Talk of Bolting

BY D. A. RUSSELL, JR.

"I was born and reared as a democrat. My father was a staunch democrat, and so were my forefathers, all of whom adhered to the Jeffersonian principles of true democracy. It is in my blood—a part of my life. Certainly I shall not bolt the democratic party after all these years."

Such was the answer that Mrs. W. O. Kinney, prominent Macon woman, member of city council and delegate from Georgia to the recent democratic national convention at Houston, made when asked whether she intended bolting the party because Alfred E. Smith, a wet and a Catholic, has been chosen as the democratic standard bearer.

Mrs. Kinney, who bitterly opposed the nomination of the New York governor, and one of the staunchest supporters of Georgia's favorite son—United States Senator Walter F. George—returned to Macon Monday night with a democratic donkey as a hatpin, a souvenir of the Houston convention, and glad that the convention was a thing of the past.

"What was it at the convention that impressed you more than any other single factor?" she was asked. There was a pause for moment as she reflected over the question. And then:

"I'll tell you. What impressed me perhaps more than anything else was the orderly manner in which the convention was carried out. I had heard that there was so much disorder at these conventions that I naturally went there expecting to see almost anything, and especially of the New York delegation. On the other hand, I was very agreeably surprised at the orderliness of the entire convention, and despite the bitterness in some quarters, of the underlying harmony that prevailed throughout, which was more evident after the nomination of Governor Smith."

"I had expected to see a great deal of drunkenness and carousing at the convention, but didn't find any of it. On the other hand, everybody seemed to be in the best of humors. Mrs. Kinney declared that it was true that there was a decided 'undercurrent' on the part of thousands to bolt the democratic party because they do not approve of the nomination of Smith, but believed that after these people have given the matter careful consideration, that 'I am sure they will make up their minds not to attempt a third-party movement.'"

"I do not believe there should be any bolting of the party," said Mrs. Kinney, who also was named as a member of the committee from Georgia which is to officially notify Senator Joseph Robinson of his nomination as vice presidential candidate to Little Rock, Ark., in August, along with delegates from all other states in the union.

"There are a good many democrats who will not vote for either of the candidates," continued Mrs. Kinney, "but I do not approve of the talk of bolting the party or a third-party movement."

"I went to Houston as a member of the Georgia delegation sworn to fight for the Georgia delegation for Senator George. We fought until the Smith vote overwhelmed all other candidates, and he was elected on the first ballot. The Georgia delegates have no apologies to offer for their fight, and as for myself, I am still for Walter F. George for president."

Asked if she would support "the democratic nominee," Mrs. Kinney replied by asserting that she would not bolt the party, and that she would not vote for Herbert Hoover.

BROOKHART HITS PEEK STATEMENT

Des Moines, Iowa, July 4.—(AP)—George N. Peek's appeal to farmers to vote the democratic ticket in November—an appeal he made as chairman of the corn belt conference's executive committee—was under fire today from United States Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, and other corn belt political leaders.

Senator Brookhart in a statement yesterday charged that Peek had played politics with the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill in an effort to win the republican presidential nomination for Vice President Dawes.

Peek, as manager of the drafting and passage of the relief bill, delayed pushing it in congress until May, Senator Brookhart said. The bill might have been passed, in the Iowa senator's opinion, with a $7,000,000 appropriation.

"Mr. Peek, however, insisted without compromise on the equalization fee which he knew the president would veto," said the Brookhart statement. "He wanted it to be vetoed to keep it alive as the principal Dawes issue."

"With this background he went to Kansas City with a big bluff and got his candidate dumped in the garbage can. Had to the core, he immediately moved to transfer the farm leadership to the democratic convention at Houston."

Senator Brookhart added that he stood ready to fight the Peek leadership "on any such platform in every agricultural state."

Governor John Hamill, of Iowa, and Willis Stern, chairman of the republican state central committee, also scored the Peek statement.

The corn conference for which Peek, as executive committee chairman, spoke, was organized here in 1926 to advance the farmers' cause. In his statement, made Monday, Peek said the farm relief plank in the republican national platform was unsatisfactory, and he urged farmers in grain, live stock and cotton producing states to vote democratic in November because the democratic platform, in his opinion, offered them the relief they sought.

Mr. Peek, in answering the Brookhart charges of "manipulation," said they have already been refuted.

"Senator Brookhart has made those same charges against me on the floor of the senate," said Mr. Peek. "They were positively refuted by Senator McNary of Oregon, Senator Gooding of Idaho. That is all the reply necessary for me to make."

Hollywood, Calif., July 4.—(AP)—Mayor James Walker, New York city's most sartorial and most peregriating burgomaster, got a late start today in the celebration of Independence day in the film capital, but made it Independence day nevertheless.

His honor got up when he was good and ready which was about 11:22 a. m., and at noon had not even breakfasted, let alone made any definite plans for the day. It could not even be learned whether he was still wearing the Colton pajamas or some like them in which he received, by chance, an unexpected deputation of leading citizens when his private car reached Colton, Calif., a few days ago.

Charles H. Hand, the mayor's secretary, said at 12:18 p. m. that perhaps in an hour he might know what his honor meant to do with what was left of the Fourth of July. He had heard something about going sometime today to some beach or other—"but the mayor is here, you know, just to play around and rest and enjoy himself—no politics."

A broadcast speech, which was to have been made some time, had, he believed, been called off. In short, Mayor Walker's plans might be stated to be "indefinite."

The mayor's personal party, consisting of William Egan, official of the Pennsylvania railroad; Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to the mayor, and his secretary, Charles Hand, was reinforced today by the arrival from New York of Paul Block, newspaper publisher, and William Seman, tea merchant.

Last night the mayor and his party were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Martin, of Hollywood, at a dinner and reception. Mr. Martin is a brother-in-law of Mr. Seman and is an official of the First National Pictures corporation. Among the guests were Colleen Moore and her husband, John McCormack, Carmel Meyers, Margaret Livingston, Marian Nixon, Laura LaPlante and Alan Dwan.

ELECTION CONTEST IN FLORIDA GOES OVER TO JULY 30

St. Petersburg, Fla., July 4.—(AP)—With only two out of thirty witnesses heard in the Citrus county election contest case, Judge T. Frank Hobson has continued the hearing to July 30.

George W. Schofield, who was defeated by 11 votes in the race for state senator by John E. King, is attempting to force a recount of the vote.

Judge Stringer of Citrus county circuit court discussed the matter for the case and it was transferred here.

TWENTY MILLION IN GOLD EAGLES MINTED FOR YEAR

Washington, July 4.—(AP)—The United States mint has produced more than $20,000,000 in gold eagles this year because of the large gold exports requiring both coin and bullion.

This brought the unusual result of the mints turning out 43,233,749 fewer coins during the fiscal year 1928 than the year before but with an increased valuation of $21,209,070, the national minting for 1928 being 252,775,335 pieces valued at $202,540,791 against the 1927 production of 296,010,084 pieces with a valuation of $141,147,127.

The treasury places responsibility for this production on the gold exports as all coins showed decreases except the double eagles and the silver half dollars with the latter increasing by only $230,000 quarter eagles remained stationary at 388,000 pieces; production of all silver coins decreased with a 1928 output of 44,652,085 pieces against a 1927 production of 50,361,334 pieces and nickels and pennies dropped to 135,265,000 pieces this year from 233,027,000 pieces last year.

STATE POSTOFFICE CLERKS HOLD FIRST MEET AT MACON

Macon, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—The Georgia federation of postoffice clerks met in their first annual convention here today. A special train from Atlanta brought a large delegation of clerks from that city and other points in the northern part of the state. Two business sessions, a luncheon and a dance were on the program. The clerks were welcomed by Assistant Postmaster Charles McElroy. Ernest C. Moore, of Macon, served as chairman at the opening session and turned the gavel over to W. R. Lee, of Savannah, president of the Georgia Federation of Postoffice Clerks.

Injunction Forbids Father Taking Boy For Plane Ride

Chicago, July 4.—An injunction forbids R. Paul Weingarten, financier, to take his six-year-old son airplaning. Mrs. Weingarten, divorcee, complained the boy could not sleep nights. The father said his son got a thrill and was always asking for a ride. Judge Sabbath decided the boy should wait a few years, remarking that then flying would probably be as common as automobile.

Your Nerves, Muscles, Vital Organs Strengthened by Virogen

—Regenerating Blood From Which
They Draw Life

THE discovery of Virogen has revived popular interest in the old question, "What is the life of the body?" Scientists have always claimed that the blood is the life, that it is the immediate source of all nourishment and strength for every nerve, muscle and organ. They point to the fact that when the body is robbed of blood, as by hemorrhage, it dies; that when the blood is of poor quality the organs are weak; and now they point out that Virogen, which is known to regenerate the blood, also builds the strength and vigor of the entire system.

New Life Through Blood.
To the general public, the discovery of Virogen has a practical interest of far-reaching importance, for it is known that the world is literally full of people whose blood is below the standard of vigorous health and whose strength and vital resistance to disease are therefore, subnormal. Almost every household, it is said, contains one or more persons of subnormal vitality—not necessarily invalids—but rather weaklings who are prone to disease and complaints of every kind. To these Virogen will prove of inestimable value in rebuilding natural strength.

The wonderful power of Virogen to rebuild natural strength, health and vigor of body and mind is now attributed by physicians to its blood-building power. Virogen, they explain, regenerates human blood, for it has been demonstrated beyond the possibility of a doubt that Virogen supplies nature with the element absolutely essential to the formation of new blood. Virogen tonic tablets are sold by Jacobs', Munn, Franklin & Cox and by leading druggists everywhere at $1.00 a box, or if you prefer will be mailed, postpaid, upon receipt of price. FIVE GIRLS HURT IN MOTOR CRASH

Lawrenceville, Ga., July 4.—Five young women were seriously hurt Wednesday afternoon on the Lawrenceville-Atlanta highway, two miles west of Lawrenceville, when a small touring car and a large coupe ran head-on into each other, completely wrecking both cars.

The small car was occupied by Misses Desma, Elma and Altha Rutledge, of Winder; Misses Viola and Ornie Ethridge, Seal Ethridge, driver, of Dacula, and J. W. Rutledge, of Atlanta. The coupe was occupied by J. H. Burgess, of Atlanta, former manager of the High Point baseball team of the Piedmont league, and Robert Forester, negro driver.

All the young women were badly cut and bruised about the face, and Miss Desma Rutledge's leg was severely cut. They were hurried to Lawrenceville, where they were given medical attention. None of the men occupants were severely hurt.

Warrants for reckless driving were sworn out for the negro driver of the Burgess car and for Seal Ethridge, driver of the small car, and Sheriff W. T. McGee and Deputy Charles Griewell arrested the parties and bonds were arranged. Mr. Burgess is traveling representative of Kendall Refining company, of Bradford, Pennsylvania.

POLITICAL OPEN FORUM PLANNED FOR AUGUSTA

All candidates for state officer in the Georgia democratic primary in September would assemble in Augusta next month for a "political open forum" on issues confronting the voters, if a movement being sponsored by the Augusta junior chamber of commerce is carried to completion.

Invitations to attend such a gathering have been sent to all the candidates, it was learned recently at the state capital, where the project has aroused some lively discussion.

At least one statehouse official—Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture—has replied to the Augusta organization not only that he would be glad to take part in an open forum of this nature, but also that he wished heartily to commend the idea.

Following is the text of the letter sent out by the commerce body:

"The junior chamber of commerce is planning to stage under its auspices something in the nature of a political open forum here about August 1st."

"You may be familiar with this practice as it is conducted in South Carolina and other states. Heretofore Georgia has never staged anything of this character, and we believe it will attract large crowds from all over the state."

"We plan to invite all candidates for state offices, and also some other noted political speakers, here at that time and ask each to make an address of his own choosing. The speakers will be placed on a program which, it is expected, will last from morning until late in the afternoon."

BLAZE DESTROYING HOUSE ENDANGERS FIREMAN'S HOME

The home of M. J. Edge, city fireman, was threatened early Wednesday in a blaze which destroyed the residence and furnishings of a neighbor, A. S. Rudderfield, at 22 Avery lane, S. E. Damage to the Rudderfield home was placed at $2,500.

Mr. Rudderfield and his family were out of the city at the time, and the fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by Mr. Edge.

A fire hose was stretched for half a mile, from the nearest hydrant, and efforts were centered on saving the surrounding property, fire reports said.

The origin of the blaze had not been determined Wednesday night.

Georgia Educators Working To Bring Convention Here

A telegram received Wednesday from the Georgia delegation at the National Education convention, in session at Minneapolis, Minn., stated that the Georgia delegates were making every effort to bring the 1929 convention of the organization to Atlanta. According to the message, prospects for Atlanta's victory are bright.

A SURE PROPHECY.—Whoso curseth his father or his mother, his lamp shall be put out in obscure darkness.—Prov. 20:20.

PRAYER.—May love and reverence ever abide in our hearts O God.

LOVE'S UNTENABLE POSITION.

Thomas B. Love, of Texas, democratic candidate for the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and former national committeeman, has said that he will not support the democratic national ticket because of the statement of Governor Smith made after his overwhelming nomination at Houston, that while he stood squarely upon the party's platform for rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws, fundamental and statutory, he believed that the cause of temperance would be better served by revisions that would make the laws more enforceable.

Mr. Love was a participant in that convention. He was a leader in the unavailing and unavailable attempt to stem the Smith tide. He knew, as did every other delegate in that convention, precisely how Governor Smith felt as to the present prohibition laws, and the force of the so-called enforcement, for he had put the delegates on notice two days before the convention assembled that he believed the present laws to be detrimental rather than helpful to the causes of temperance and national sobriety.

Governor Smith did not propose that his views should be misunderstood, nor did he propose that any delegate in the convention should be confused as to define his position, which has been consistent since the problem has been before the country, and which has been frankly, definitely and courageously expressed.

No candidate has ever gone before the American public with less to explain on this or any other issue. He has steadfastly refused to trim sails to fit political winds. He has refused to listen to suggestions of expediency. Mr. Love, therefore, when he officially sat in the convention, voted for a platform that is definitely "dry," with full knowledge that only congress can submit proposed amendments or make revisions in laws. He also knew the unmistakable views of his party's nominee before he was nominated, but when he knew the nomination was inevitable.

If he had intended to bolt the party that had served and honored him, and from which he is seeking fresh honors, he should have left the Texas delegation and the democratic party before the convention adjourned, and not waited to later hang an excuse upon the nominee's frank and courageous reiteration of his previously expressed views.

Governor Smith has a right to his personal views on this and on all controversial issues just as has Mr. Love. In accepting the nomination on a thoroughly "dry" platform he pledged himself to use all of his executive authority and influence toward law enforcement. That does not preclude him from personally believing that sobriety and better morals can be best promoted by changes in the laws. The fact is, students of Governor Smith's executive record, and of his courage and fairness, are almost a unit in the conscientious conviction that the prohibition laws will be more effectively enforced under his administration, if elected, than during the past seven years.

It is a matter of statistical record that the tide of bootleg liquor and of prohibition violations reached its flood stage since the Wilson administration closed. There were less than 10 per cent of the recorded violations in 1920 that there were in 1927.

National Committeeman Adams is taking a commendatory course in seeking to separate the wheat from the chaff. It is not possible to be a democrat in one yard and a republican in another. It is not possible to "bark with the hound and run with the hare." If Mr.

Love wishes to bolt the national democratic ticket that is his privilege. But in thus abetting the republican ticket he will automatically become a republican and, therefore, has neither moral nor party right to pose as a democratic candidate in the Texas primaries.

And that is the situation in which all of the announced bolters, who still claim to be democrats, are placed.

IT MUST APPLY TO ALL.
Executives of the railroads involved, in conference with members of the bridge committee of council relative to the movement to establish a smokeless zone in Atlanta, are showing an encouraging spirit of cooperation in plans for the elimination of the nuisance, provided all smoke-emitting industries and businesses in such a zone shall be included in any legal mandate that may be enacted. In this their position is unanswerable.

It would not only be discriminatory to impose restrictions upon the railroads that did not apply to other soft coal burning furnaces in the area prescribed, but it would not serve the purpose sought, which is the abatement of the present almost unbearable, and certainly unhealthy, situation.

It was brought out at the conference Tuesday that approximately only 10 per cent of the smoke density within the fire limits of Atlanta is produced by railroad locomotives. In that event the stacks of industry and business emit the other 90 per cent of the density.

Electrification of the railroads while moving their engines and trains within the fire limits, or the employment by them of smokeless fuel, would—if an ordinance was not broad enough to really remedy the situation—leave it in practically as bad a condition as it is today. Thereby the purposes, which are not to impose hardships but to free the city of smoke and soot, would be of no practical or constructive avail.

The railroad executives express willingness to cooperate with the city in solving the smoke nuisance. It is commendable that the bridge committee of council is disposed to broaden the scope of the proposed ordinance in order that the remedy to the nuisance may be complete and satisfactory.

It is only necessary to review what has been accomplished in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and practically all of the large industrial centers, to convince anyone of the practicability of making a city smokeless.

Atlanta should abate this nuisance. Council is progressing along a much needed line. But the elimination must be made complete, by a uniform enforcement of a remedy, otherwise nothing of benefit will or can be accomplished.

CRISP SEES VICTORY.

Representative Charles R. Crisp, of the third Georgia district, was one of the outstanding figures in the Houston convention. He made the address placing Senator Walter F. George, of this state, as a candidate before the convention for the presidential nomination. He is a "dry," with an unbroken record for supporting dry legislation. He is a powerful and influential member of the house, being a member of the American foreign debt funding commission. His father was speaker of the house before him. It has been a family of unyielding, faithful, old-time Jeffersonian democracy.

From his home in Americus the press dispatches carry the following statement from Congressman Crisp:

"It is my firm opinion, after a careful survey of the political situation throughout the nation at this time, that Governor Smith will be the next president of the United States. Notwithstanding this, and his expressed desire for a modification of existing prohibition laws, in my opinion, there will be no change made in the Volstead act, nor will prohibition enforcement activities be modified in the least as a result of Governor Smith's election."

The Georgia representative takes no stock in the movements of radicals and insurrectionists, and from his frankly expressed views does not expect their threatened defection to do the party any damage—on the contrary, possibly good. This nation is normally republican. There is no mistaking that fact. The victory for the democratic party in November, which Representative Crisp, who is a close and trained observer, sees must come through the fairness and definiteness of the platform and the strength of the standard bearers.

The keynote of the campaign proclaimed that this country doesn't intend to be done in oil.

Texas was once a howling wilderness. It is no longer a wilderness but it knows how to howl.

Claude Bowers was introduced as from "Indiana and New York," but he didn't straddle any issues.

Prohibition makes one as talkative as liquor.

Platforms are built with every known convenience to the parties.

The political marathon is on.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Bad Men And Women.

Mr. Sidney Dark, an English author, has made the discovery in his "Twelve Bad Men" that bad men are a failure. Look at them closely, and they are not so very bad after all. His choice of twelve falls on Robespierre, Cesare Borgia, Cellini, Marlborough, Judge Jeffreys, Frederick the Great, and half a dozen others; and though there were undoubted points of villainy in them all, yet as a collection of devils incarnate they are below par. Jeffreys is by far the nastiest of them, but he had his good points. Cesare Borgia probably a greater perpetrator of vice than he had any real claim to. "He murdered capriciously and without scruple, but that was not remarkable in the Italy of his time," Marlborough won Malplaquet, Cellini made some of the most beautiful things in gold and bronze of his century, and Robespierre, who had certainly a noble disposition, was at least simple, sincere and incorruptible. Perhaps the greatest disappointment comes upon being reminded of the ultimate fate of Lucretia Borgia. With her third marriage, there came to Lucretia years of quiet and peace. She won the heart of her husband and that of her people. Her life was pious and blameless, and she died loved and regretted in 1519."

It is in the tiny seaside hamlet of St. Marie, where the Borgia join the sea, that these takes place every summer what must surely be the last of the early Christian ceremonies. It is held by Gypsies from all over Europe. On foot, in caravans, they could be seen creeping in a brilliantly colored line, miles long, over the Camargue, that desert land, peopled only by wild black cattle and an occasional flamingo, that lies inland from the lonely coast of their pilgrimage. They come to await the summons to the only service in the world which is held first and foremost for Gypsies. In all old churches are kept, what are said to be the bones of the three Marys of the New Testament, who fled here when persecution scattered the primitive church of Jerusalem. The archbishop of Aix, a magnificently medieval figure in scarlet silk and white lace, began his sermon with the words: "My beloved Gypsies." As he spoke a door opened, high in the wall above the altar, and slowly, a casket containing the bones of the Marys began to descend. As soon as the casket reached the ground it was immediately smothered by the eager bodies of the Gypsies, each one determined to touch before it should be carried down to the beach in the triumphal procession that heralded the blessing of the sea. Soon they had done and the procession began to move back to the beach.

"Beloved Gypsies."

We beggar ourselves in order to give our daughter an education. She got it in the east—pretty nearly everything they offer, I guess. But she can't bear home now. We're not her sort. "No ideas," she says. We now wonder whether colleges are any good.

It is unfortunate that in getting knowledge your daughter did not also get understanding. The situation today is the situation of the world. It is a training of the heart which dedicates these gains to wisdom's ends.

But she is young and has not the mellowing influence of experience. Be patient with her. She is always on account she has the passion for truth. Her flame burns in her. She will discuss Kant over the coffee cups, argue television at luncheon, and she values Leonardo da Vinci as "dinner"—the meal which you probably insist on for supper.

There is something fine about her devotion to the wonderful realms into which your sacrificial labors launched her. The day will come when she will appreciate your effort and see how more steadily than she sees it now. Every unfilled attitude born of intellectual snobbery will then reproach her and she will lament that her lack of life's true perspective.

Youth is often so intent on its own affairs that its judgments lack human quality. Yet still, the dangers of contrast are in your domestic situation. When children who are college graduates begin to apologize for their behavior, character deteriorates and the need of correctives is palpable. Do not suppose, however, that you are alone in this ordeal. Many a college graduate is in your domestic situation, out-of-date fog. Yet he used to think himself the last word in academic culture.

Your child's mood will pass. Her womanhood will assert itself and find ways the more grateful because of the education she has received. Love comes to her, and she will be a better person than you ever knew her to be. So again I say, be patient.

BENEFITS OF PROHIBITION CITED.

BY ELLA A. BOOLE.
President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Ella A. Boole was born at Van Wert, Ohio, in 1858. She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1881. At the beginning of her career she became a member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and in 1882, when this country and became connected with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New York, of which organization she served as president from 1887 to 1893, and president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union from 1893 to 1900. She was a prohibition candidate for United States senator from New York in 1900. Her home is in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Marvellous as have been the results of prohibition we have not received full benefit of this good law because of the determined opposition of the liquor traffic in their various branches. It is in their hands, and they are determined to exploit the highball habits of the whites.

The generation of children now growing up who have never seen a saloon, to whom the once common sight of the Saturday night bacchanalian orgy near drinking resorts is not the ordinary tolerated incident of the week, in the generation profoundly affected by prohibition. These are the young people spoken of by Henry Ford—children by the million who will never know disability from alcohol in themselves, in their families or in their friends.

The campaign of education in the United States must be continued; temperance sentiment must be increased. The cooperation of other nations must be secured to prevent smuggling into the United States; but principally the appeal must be made to Americans at home and abroad to support the policy as embodied in the constitution in the interest of the general welfare.

Recently I said something about museums for small communities. I ventured the observation that America is dropping the history that it has, and that Americans are beginning to realize the rich value of this continent's past. I emphasized the fact that small communities can do a great service to themselves and to the country as a whole by establishing modest museums in which the color of their life may be preserved.

New England is perhaps more conscious of the value of its past than most parts of the United States, although in some sections of the north and in California there are history-minded communities.

In certain New England towns it has long been the custom for large financial institutions to assist in preservation of local history by issuing booklets from time to time containing precise local history.

A Failure Is an Engine That Does Not Use Some of Its Cylinders

By Robert Quillen

When we speak of a 90-horsepower engine, we are describing something that doesn't exist. An engine has no power. It is a cold and lifeless thing of steel. It is merely a furnace in which a fire may be kindled.

Consider the biceps. Human flesh has great tensile strength. Remove the biceps from an arm; clamp one end to a derrick and the other to a ton weight. Now deliver power from an engine to the derrick and the biceps will lift a ton. But it has no power in itself.

The normal power in the biceps is life. It is an intangible something that defies description. It is a form of energy that is all we know about it. But life alone does not provide the biceps its maximum power. When a man is enraged, his glands provide an adrenal stimulant that multiplies the power of the biceps. These adrenal secretions are not energy; they merely are the material of which energy is made—as gasoline produces energy when exploded in an engine.

Energy itself is something that cannot be seen. It has no dimensions—no weight. It is like life; we can see its effects, but its ultimate source remains a mystery.

The biceps gets multiplied power from the adrenal stimulants, as the engine gets power from gasoline, but the source of the energy is life. To express it simply, rage makes a man stronger.

The emotions are an actual source of energy. Fear lends swiftness to the feet. Ambition overcomes the poison of fatigue. It has been scientifically demonstrated that the man who enjoys his work does not become fatigued as does the man whose labor is unpleasant.

The dead biceps has no power; life gives it energy; adrenal secretions multiply its energy.

If necessity is man's only source of energy, he develops no more than is required to get a living; give him the stimulant of joy in his work and his power is multiplied. He is a success. His power to accomplish has been increased just as literally as the adrenal secretions increase the power of the biceps.

To work at an uncongenial task is deliberately to cut out four cylinders from the engine. You simply develop your road horsepower. If you are running on two cylinders, you need to change jobs. Joy is a source of energy; no man can work wonders without it.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

IF YOU CAN'T CHALK IT, CHUCK IT.

June 30, 1907, the title I submitted for my contribution was as follows: "If You Can't Chalk It, Chuck It." Of course such a silly title may not for that day, and if it wasn't, then the title I have submitted for today's spiel, namely, "If You Can't Chalk It, Chuck It," will have no point at all. But then, there's no use worrying about that, for likely enough this title is too foolish to print and something more sensible will be used in place of it. I don't mind, so long as the effect is just dumb and meaningless to the reader.

"Well, last year's talk was about the superiority of calcium carbonate, prepared chalk, over saleratus (sodium bicarbonate) as an antacid, especially when the invalid or potential invalid feels that he must have a regular dose of something or other to quell the acidity, burning, gas formation or whatever picturesque term he applies to his stomach trouble.

Unlike soda, prepared chalk is antacid only in the digestive tract. It does not alkalize the blood nor diminish the normal urinary acidity. It has comparatively no effect on the bowels, whereas soda in large or frequent doses tends to irritate and loosen the bowels. Calcium carbonate does not disturb the normal acid base balance of the system.

A dose of 10 grains, more or less, of calcium carbonate, in powder, tablet, or one or another liquid suspension, or mixed with water, is sufficient to neutralize excessive acidity in the stomach for several hours. So that three or four such doses a day should calm and subdue almost any trouble that may be fairly attributed to "acidity."

Since the article was published a year ago today some medicine manufacturers have put on the market 10 grain tablets of calcium carbonate flavored with cinnamon. These are all right, except that I should not put the price for them myself. I'd prefer to have the corner drugger weigh out half an ounce of prepared chalk and fix it up in two dozen powders or in suspension with a little mucilage of acacia or a little tragacanth and cinnamon water, so that a teaspoonful would carry about 10 grains.

Several readers who lamped the article a year ago and became chalk eaters, have written me very enthusiastic reports about the benefits they have derived from it. After due reflection I deem it unfair to invalids or near invalids to specify what these alleged benefits are. Suffice to say that I am recommending calcium carbonate, otherwise known as prepared chalk, as a substitute for soda for use as an antacid. I hope I have made it all clear and simple and that it will not be necessary for me to decline to send any further details about the use of calcium carbonate as an antacid.

Before we open the question box I must explain the title I submitted to accompany this article—of course I can't tell whether it is good or bad. I wanted it to be. I meant that if calcium carbonate (chalk) does not remedy your stomach trouble you may be fairly certain it isn't from acidity, and in that case you ought to quit trifling and have a good doctor find out what is really ails you. I ought to tell whether it is good or bad. I wanted it to be. I meant that if calcium carbonate (chalk) does not remedy your stomach trouble you may be fairly certain it isn't from acidity, and in that case you ought to quit trifling and have a good doctor find out what is really ails you. Mount Clemens, Mich.
Would you kindly recommend a book for a man who was originally an unbeliever in or had serious doubts as to the existence of a God, dealing with the development of the world from the beginning to the present? I do not have in mind the naturally spiritual type of man, but the hard-headed, materialist or business man. Your suggestions may help me to formulate my own faith.

Romane's "Thoughts on Religion" is the best book I know of for your purpose. It goes behind all forms of faith to its root and essence, and the work of a superior mind trained in the sciences of the intellect. The Melchior Book Concern, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City, can probably supply you with a copy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Sleeping Out.

Is it beneficial to sleep out of doors in the summer? I like to do so, but am often surprised by rain. Is it healthful to take daily sunbaths? It is advisable to take a dip in the water once a week, but fast and then again after breakfast, and a third time after dinner. My folks think it is too much to do in three times a day.

(T. A. S.)

Answer—Yes, it is healthful to sleep out of doors in the summer. Mosquitoes distribute malarial germs. A sunbath is healthful if not overdone, that is, it must be short and in the shade. A swim before breakfast is all right, but it is better not to go in immediately after eating—wait on hour or so, then a dip in the water once a day as you like.

Case of Ankle-oes. I have unusually large ankles and calves. I have tried leg exercises now for a year steady and they have made the muscles firm but I haven't reduced the size. Would you suggest any exercises or salt baths dissolved in it do any good, or would vinegar with the flesh be better? (E. J. H.)

Answer—Tennis, skating, rope skipping, running, hiking, ballet dancing, jumping, hiking, will help. Haven't you heard of the famous opera singer, Flaminio, who was so fat that he couldn't get into his own dressing room? One day through her maid's error the tub was filled with vinegar instead of champagne, and when she got out at the usual hour Flaminio was found to have died of the vinegar.

Now Be Factious.

Is there any cure for piles except operation? Is the operation serious? (E. J. H.)

Answer—Surgey is the only cure—it isn't always necessary to do an operation, if by that you mean cutting. The surgical treatment is no joke, as a rule, though it is no funeral either. Observe please take notice that I do not doubt that a few victims go for many months or years without another attack.

Baby Books.

What books or pamphlets do you recommend on the care of babies? (Mrs. D. S. W.)

Answer—Infant Care, published at 10 cents, government printing office, Washington, D. C.; Simplified Motherhood, by Dr. F. H. Richardson, published at $1.75. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York, N. Y.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.)

booklets lie before me. It is "Some Famous Printers of New England," written by Ralph M. Eastman and privately printed for the State Street Trust company, of Boston. This is a book of rare engravings, and is illustrated with rare engravings and wood cuts, printed on heavy paper and handsomely bound in heavy paper covers.

I am informed that the company that issued this booklet makes a practice of issuing something equally important each year.

In second-hand book stores somewhat similar publications issued by a company in Providence from year to year.

Now, I submit that the publication of such historical brochures as a regular institutional program is not only an important service to the cities concerned, but that it is, in all likelihood, appreciated by those communities.

Odd's & Ends of City Life

by Bill Shipper

The happiest Fourth of July party I saw was eleven dachshunds in an enormous yellow automobile all spurred out in brass and flags with the cutout talking back like anything.

That boy up front, the one behind the wheel, the dog's head, have been himself than Lindbergh at Le Bourget. And why not?

The saddest party, or creature, rather, was a shaggy dog classed within a sedan at the curb, and quite alone. A fierce slant of sunlight beat upon his prison, the dog's tongue was out, and he puffed like a locomotive.

One more hot dog, that. I had to grin at his pathetic expression—and remember, eyes seemed to answer: "How'd you like to take a Turkish bath in a fur coat at high noon on the Fourth of July?"

The mischievous gods of the storm, who delight to deluge all picnics, gave way Tuesday before an intolerant sun, which blazed impartially on deserted office building and populous playground.

So no more picnic, the open spaces that country roads roared with traffic, like downtown thoroughfares, outdoor resorts teemed with humanity, as sweet shops do.

Incidentally, apple vinegar is a good wash for sunburn, if you can stand it for the first five minutes without tearing out in quest of a fire alarm.

Downtown Wednesday a portly citizen, perspired—you might say "Sweet-ed," I'm too refined—as he galloped after a parcel. The wind had caught him from the hands of a lady occupant of a rumble seat. It must be hard to keep that schoolgirl complexion in a rumble seat.

Suppose the lady had refused to loose her umbrella? Would she have looted like an aviator in the fog, you reckon?

POSTAL WORKERS GATHER AT MACON

Macon, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—The Georgia Federation of Postoffice Clerks, in session here today, endorsed the 20-year optional retirement plan as the paramount issue of the first annual convention. The clerks, 250 strong, favored the service retirement instead of the age retirement, as is now in force. The act now provides optional retirement at the age of 65 years.

The clerks also endorsed the 44-hour week, giving them a half holiday on Saturday; the extension of credit for military service; the recognition of the motor vehicle as a permanent unit of postal service, and a policy guaranteeing substitute clerks and carriers a minimum of five hours daily.

A permanent state organization was perfected. At the close of the business session in the afternoon Ernest C. Moore, of Macon, was elected president for the coming year. Other officers elected were J. H. Dean, Valdosta, first vice president; John T. Alexander, Atlanta, second vice president; Clyde Lawrence, Columbus, third vice president, and August C. Lawrence, Atlanta, secretary and treasurer. Valdosta was chosen as the next meeting place, and the convention there will be held on July 4, next year.

Harry C. Weinstein, of Philadelphia, first vice president of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, was the principal speaker of the morning session. He discussed legislation.

B. C. GOODPASTURE TO ASSUME PULPIT HERE SEPTEMBER 1

The urgent and continuous appeal of the entire membership at the Seminole Avenue Church of Christ to B. C. Goodpasture, of Florence, Ala., to accept the pastorate of the new congregation, won favorable consideration and he will assume his new charge here on September 1, it was announced on Wednesday.

The minister visited Atlanta last Monday night and attended a business meeting of the church, making known his decision at that time.

Mr. Goodpasture is well known throughout this city and section as one of the ablest orators and teachers this city has known. He won widespread recognition as a profound student and preacher during the seven years he was pastor of the West End avenue congregation.

F. P. and George J. Morris, local realtors, have begun the construction of the minister's new home, and plans are being formulated for a spirited membership campaign just after the new pastorate assumes charge.

PRISON SEWERAGE LINE IS SUBJECT OF COURT ACTION

Milledgeville, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—The city attorney of Milledgeville was instructed today by city council to start mandamus proceedings in superior court immediately to compel installation by the state prison commission of a sewer line diverting the state farm sewage from Milledgeville's water supply source. The legislature last year appropriated $7,500 for this work.

Dr. L. W. Lee, chairman of the water committee, said Chairman R. E. Davidson, of the prison board, has promised several times to install the pipe line, but nothing has been done. City officials contend that Milledgeville's water supply is being contaminated and that the prison board has violated its duty to the various state institutions.

PALMETTO STATE GIRL WINS CROWN AT SAVANNAH FETE

Savannah, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—A fair daughter of South Carolina today had been crowned most beautiful of 194 girls representing three states at the Savannah water carnival.

Miss Jessie Addison, of Fairfax, S. C., was adjudged most beautiful of the county beauty queens from Georgia, Florida and South Carolina at ceremonies last yesterday. She represented Allendale County, S. C.

"As she sat there, alone, defenseless, unable to answer the terrible charges hurled against her, it seemed that her hurt, crushed heart could bear no more. Was this the reward of true and loyal love? Were self-sacrifice and devotion, after all, only a hollow mockery?" (From "The No-Account Girl," August True Story Magazine.)

They called her a soulless "gold-digger" but—

Do you remember the sensational breach of promise suit instigated a few years ago by a humble flower-girl against her young millionaire lover and his wealthy mother?

Because of the obscurity of the girl and the social prominence of mother and son, the trial attracted countrywide attention.

Certainly no girl, cringing in piteous terror under the lash of cross-examination, ever strove more desperately, more despairingly, to answer the ugly charges hurled at her by a grim and merciless opposing counsel.

"Gold digger! Blackmailer!" her persecutor shouted. "A woman without a shred of honor! An unprincipled wanton who makes a mock of the sacredness of marriage—who knows only one kind of love—the love of money and the luxury money can buy!"

Money! They thought she wanted money! As if money could ever buy back the priceless happiness that had been snatched from her by cunning and trickery!

Dimly, through a mist of tears, she saw before her that proud, grim-lipped, haughty mother. There, too, she saw the white, set face of the son—the boy she had loved, and still loved, with every nerve and fiber of her body.

And then her turn came. In a voice broken by sobs, she told her pitiful story—the story of her poor little romance that now was dead.

As the wretched details unfolded under her attorney's gentle questioning, men hardened, to sorrow wiped their eyes furtively—women in the court-room wept aloud.

Then came that dramatic and unlooked-for conclusion. An unexpected witness was called to the stand—and in ten words hurled into the tense silence of the crowded court-room a bombshell that reverberated to the ends of the earth.

Most people, stunned for the moment by the unexpected outcome of the trial, dismissed the matter as finished and done with when the principals in the tragedy vanished from the public eye. Even today few suspect the true history of events behind that tremendous drama of intrigue, suffering and deathless love.

But now, for the first time, the entire story has been told by the girl who was the central figure in that amazing drama. Told in words that will bring tears to your eyes—tears of joy, of sorrow, of understanding and sympathy.

Don't miss this throbbing narrative from life. It is entitled "The No-Account Girl," and appears complete in the August issue of True Story Magazine.

Straight-from-the-Heart Stories of Life

How many stories lie hidden in the hearts of men and women—stories that ordinarily they do not tell!

What a sensation these friends and neighbors of ours might create, if they were to reveal the secrets they guard so jealously.

Sometimes, however, in their desire to help others, men and women find the courage to disclose their experiences, hiding only their identities under fictitious names. These are the stories, told straight from the heart, that fascinate, thrill, inspire, as mere fiction can never do. These are the written revelations that sometimes startle with their frankness, but which never fail to carry a helpful message to readers everywhere.

Every month True Story Magazine prints from 14 to 16 of these absorbing true-life narratives—faithful records of error, struggle, self-sacrifice, defeat and triumph that fairly throb with the dramatic power of reality.

August True Story is a splendid example. Your newsdealer has it. Get your copy today.

RADIO-ING

The Air Waves!

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

Sentimental melodies will be presented by the Hoover Sentinels at 6:30 o'clock tonight over WSB and the NBC network. The Hoover orchestra will offer several popular numbers while the Honeybees will be heard in two duets—Berlin's "I Can't Do Without You" and "Someone Had to Steal You Away," by Link. The Sentinels will sing Wood's "She's a Great, Great Girl" and "Do I Hear You Saying" by Rodgers.

Other numbers will be "Serenade de Tsingane" and "My Windows of Dreams."

A boyhood friend and crony of the "Old Colonel" will be introduced during the Maxwell hour over WSB and the NBC chain at 7:30 o'clock. The two old gentlemen knew the Maxwell house at Nashville when it was the center of southern social life. In those days splendid receptions and balls were held there and on the hotel register appeared names that made American history. Tonight the "Old Colonel's" friend will tell of a visit to the Maxwell house of Theodore Roosevelt.

During the program the orchestra will play a number of southern melodies, with negro songs predominating. A paraphrase of several of the best known of the negro spirituals will open the program.

The Flit Soldiers will be heard over WSB and the NBC network at 8:30 o'clock in a program which was scheduled for last week, but which stepped aside that we all might not miss a word from the democratic convention at Houston. We didn't! But tonight we want the Flit corporal and sergeant. The song numbers will include "Call Me Sweetheart Once More," "Give the Poor Girl a Chance," the first by the cor-

Change in Standing Marks

MRS. CLARKE NOW IN FOURTH PLACE

Screen 'Opportunity' Race

Advancing from seventh Tuesday to fourth place Wednesday, Mrs. Winifred Clarke featured the voting in The Constitution and Keith's Georgia theater contest to select the girl most suited for a screen career and who will be awarded a cash prize of $200 in addition. All posts were hotly contested, Miss Dora Roulin retaining her lead.

Miss Rachel Pruitt held her own in second place after ballots of Wednesday's voting had been counted, and Miss Eula Mae Thompson retained third place.

Total standings of contestants, including all votes cast up to 10 o'clock Wednesday night are:

Miss Dora Roulin 3,930
Miss Rachel Pruitt 3,810
Miss Eula Mae Thompson 3,710
Mrs. Winifred Clarke 3,340
Inez Pergantis Theos 2,190
Miss Ruth Wilson 2,020
Miss Mollie Belle Morgan 1,130
Miss Ruth Dale 490
Miss Evelyn Dale 340
Voting will continue all this week until the theater closes Saturday night. Ballots then will be counted and the young woman who has the most votes will be awarded the $200 prize, and will have a special red made of her to be sent to Hollywood.

Several "shots" in various poses of each contestant are shown three times daily, 2:30, 6, and 8:30 o'clock, at Keith's Georgia theater. With coupons clipped from the theater program, or from The Constitution, each member of the audience then casts his or her vote for the one he believes most competent for a screen career.

There is no limit to the number of votes an individual may cast for his or her favorite. "Stuffing the ballot boxes" is perfectly legitimate in this contest.

Wednesday passed the half-way mark in the contest. There is still a chance for any girl entered to win. And the final count Saturday night may see some of those who are tugging the list now, right at the top.

If you have a favorite, clip out this coupon and drop it into the ballot box in the Georgia theater lobby.

FOURTH DRAWS 21,855 TO LAKEWOOD PARK

Thrills aplenty were furnished Atlanta's Wednesday night, as the Lakewood park for celebration of the Fourth of July, enjoying an elaborate program arranged for them by the management. The attendance was announced at 21,855.

In the afternoon the auto speed races, in which Fred Hory, veteran driver, was an outstanding participant, winning three events, held the attention of the crowds while a gigantic Theatre-Duffield fireworks display attracted many at night. With all the roar and thrill of a real naval battle, the battle of Manila bay was faithfully reproduced and also a replica of the Stone Mountain memorial, followed by a finale in which 100 rockets were set off simultaneously.

A parachute jump held the attention of the crowd at 4 o'clock, when Jesse Exum, of Chandler field, attempted to hit the lake in jumping from a plane piloted by Beeler Blevins. He missed his mark, however, and made a successful landing about 100 yards from the lake.

Afternoon and night hand concerts were held while the midway attracted practically all of the large throng on hand. Officials Wednesday night said that it was one of the greatest crowds to ever turn out for the Fourth of July.

POLICE LOOKING FOR 2 CONVICTS AND STOLEN AUTO

Atlanta police have been notified to be on the lookout for two white convicts who escaped from the Hall county jail early Wednesday night. They were reported driving a stolen car and thought to be headed toward Atlanta.

One of the men is described as weighing about 150 pounds, light brown hair, fair complexion, and has a set of upper gold teeth, and the other man is slender, weight about 135 pounds and has a small gray mustache. An early capture is anticipated.

JOHN D. THE 3RD GETS $40 A WEEK ON GENEVA JOB

Geneva, July 4.—(P)—League of Nations officials today issued an appeal stating that they were anxious to make the coming of John D. Rockefeller, III, to hold a temporary job with the league information section entirely simple and natural. It was hoped that the press and the public would do nothing to embarrass the Princeton student in the fulfillment of his duties.

The officials asked for cooperation to avoid any exaggerated or wrong impression on behalf of a "fine chap." It was added that his salary would be commensurate with his work and the general league scale.

Temporary summer assistants generally receive $40 a week.

State Highway Chairman Cites Department Record In Fourth of July Address

Holder, Speaking at Blue Ridge Barbecue, Reviews Policies and Tells of Plans for Future.

Blue Ridge, Ga., July 4.—(Special.)—Georgia's highway department has made a record in road construction and road maintenance which compares favorably with the records made by similar departments in other states, according to John N. Holder, chairman of the board, in a speech delivered at a barbecue given here Wednesday in celebration of the inauguration of surface construction on a new paved highway to be built from Blue Ridge to the Tennessee line near Copper Hill.

In his speech the chairman stated that he spoke for the entire highway board and delivered an elaborate review of the policies of the department; of the road building projects it has carried out and of the plans for the future. Chairman Holder defended the use of "flexible type of paving" in Georgia, remarking that this type has received the approval of able engineers in both the state and government highway departments. He declared that there is no such thing as a "permanent road" and said the flexible type of road was the best road available for modern transportation conditions.

Experiment Fails.
Chairman Holder said the board "holds a brief for any paving interest." He also denied the department is building "cheap John" or "tar paper" roads, as has been charged by various critics. The speaker demanded open specifications and open competition between all types of roads so that the state board may be free to follow the judgment of its engineers and technical experts in constructing roads under varying conditions in different localities.

Referring to the failure of the road from Macon to Grays in Jones county, Chairman Holder said this road was constructed out of materials recommended by the state highway engineer. He quoted the engineer as saying the use of a decomposed foliapor base would save much money in this locality, as this material was found in abundant quantities. He said the experiment showed that this material was not adapted as a base for a paved highway.

Since the state highway department was created it has spent $78,047,926.04, it was stated by the speaker. Of this total approximately $29,000,000 was spent for grading roads. Nearly $8,000,000 was spent in maintenance. Top soiling roads cost during the period about $3,000,000. Paving costs aggregated nearly $30,000,000. For chert, gravel and macadam about $5,500,000 was spent. Bridges constructed under this program cost about $12,500,000, these figures totaling $82,827,729 and with $76,047,926 expended leaves $6,279,802 still under construction.

Denies Extravagance.
Chairman Holder specifically stated that the department has "wasted machinery" is engaged in building "cheap John roads" or has been "extravagant." He said these reports came from people who have "personal animosity" toward a member of the board. He discussed specifically some newspaper criticism of the department and admitted that newspapers had the right to make legitimate criticism of the work of public officials but declared that "one of the most contemptible things in the world is for an editor of a newspaper to give vent to his personal spleen and animosity toward a public official in his newspaper."

The speaker pointed out that another class of people who attack the department is composed of one particular kind of propagandists who want one particular kind of pavement used on state aid roads. He said the policy of the state highway board is one of absolute impartiality as between paving types.

Four Main Highways.
Outlining in a brief review the plans of the department for trunk highways in Georgia, Chairman Holder said:

"The State Highway board has earnestly carried out that provision of the law which says that in the construction of this system attention shall be given to secure main trunk line roads through the state. This is being done in the construction of the county seat to county seat system by the counties and state cooperating together in building these routes which constitute links in the main trunk line routes in these counties."

Overhead Low.
"Not only has this been done without borrowing funds with which to accomplish it, but the state highway board can say with pride that this and all other highway expenditures have been accomplished with an overhead expense far less than that allowed by law. Under the law, the overhead shall not exceed 6 per cent of the funds handled in any one year. Whereas, the state auditor's report shows that the overhead for 1927 was only two and nine-tenths per cent of the funds expended. No state in the Union can point to a lower overhead than can the state of Georgia. Notwithstanding the additional amount for engineering made necessary by the expanded program of construction, the overhead expenses today are only a little more than they were when the state merely was spending $5,000,000 a year. We spent last year for all purposes, $14,702,000."

703, of which amount $12,705,805.46 was spent for construction.

"It has been the high purpose and earnest endeavor of the State Highway board of Georgia to hold the expense of operating the department down to the minimum and we believe, that you will agree with us in this undertaking we have succeeded and succeeded well."

PORT OF SAVANNAH REVENUES LARGE

Savannah, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Customs receipts for the port of Savannah during the fiscal year July 1, 1927 to June 30, 1928, totaled $5,908,216.15, M. O. Dunning, collector of customs, in his report for the period said treasury receipts amounted to $5,892,147.05, commerce receipts $15,021.10 and labor receipts, $1,015. Expenses incurred in collecting these sums amounted to $63,670.99, or 1.078 cents on each dollar of the receipts.

Atlanta, as an inland port showed a fair business for the year, Mr. Dunning said. Total collections for that office were $128,355.35. The cost of collecting one dollar in Atlanta was almost seven times as great as in Savannah, or 6.959 cents on each dollar.

Sugar furnishes the chief source of revenue in Savannah, with Cuba and the islands the principal exporters. Hessian cloth, mostly from India, iron and steel imports from Germany and England, textile machinery from Germany, asbestos shingles and seed from Belgium were other sources of revenue.

The injured, E. R. Brown and Lincoln Oklesco, were brought to the marine hospital here where it was said they were not seriously hurt.

Don't fool yourself:

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Before any "date" -end halitosis

BEFORE any engagement where you wish to appear at your best, decency demands that you rinse the mouth with Listerine.

By so doing you eliminate any risk of offending by halitosis (unpleasant breath).

You never have it? Don't fool yourself—you simply cannot know when you have it. It doesn't announce itself to you. But it does to others and offends them.

Listerine ends halitosis because it is a powerful deodorant. Prove it this way. Rub a bit of onion on your hand—then apply Listerine clear. Immediately the odor is gone. Even the odor of fish yields to it.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office and use it. It makes you agreeable to others instead of disagreeable. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

WHITE MEETS A BROTHER.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

On family ties do not depend: In times of stress they are apt to end. Old Mother Nature, Whitey, the Runaway Rabbit, who had reached the bramble-tangle on the edge of the Old Pasture, just in time to escape the reaching claws of White-tail the Marsh Hawk, was not so sure as he had been that the Great World

Removes Summer Complexion Ills

Enjoy the summer sunshine, knowing that mercolized wax will protect your complexion from the scorching rays as well as from summer winds. Obtainable at any drug store, the wax is applied slightly to the face, neck and arms, like a cold cream. It gently absorbs the thin outer film of skin, removing all traces of freckles, tan, sunburn and many other summer complexion ailments. The wax is a rose petal. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and restore facial contour, use as an astringent. 1 ounce powdered wax and 1 half pint witch hazel.

ed back and his pink eyes were blue with fear. And then that wobbly little nose of his caught a familiar scent.

"Pooh!" said his brother. "What are you going to do now?"

It was the Rabbit scent. It was one of his brothers. You know, his brothers and sisters had left the dear Old Pasture some time before Whitey had. "Oh!" exclaimed Whitey. "It's you, is it?" and in his voice was disgust. "Yes," replied Whitey meekly, "it's me." "How long have you been here?" asked his brother. "Just a little while," replied Whitey.

"I left the dear Old Pasture this afternoon, and I had two dreadful adventures on the way here. 'What are you going to do now?' 'I don't know,' replied Whitey. 'I might come along with you. I suppose you know all about it up here in the Old Pasture.' 'I know enough to know that you are not coming with me,' replied his brother bluntly.

"Why not?" asked Whitey. "Because," replied his brother, "it is hard enough to keep a whole skin as it is. I certainly don't want that white coat of yours along. You'll have to look out for yourself. Don't expect me to help. If you'll take my advice, you'll change your coat."

With this, Whitey's brother turned and away he went. Poor Whitey! He would have given anything to change that coat, but of course he couldn't change it. At last, he couldn't.

The next story: "Whitey Gets an Idea."

Miss Culberson Weds Gerald Y. Smith At Noon Ceremony

A wedding of cordial interest was that of Miss Ruth Culberson and Gerald Young Smith which took place Sunday, July 1, at high noon, at the West End Christian church. The

Rev. Gerald Culberson, father of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large group of relatives and friends. The church was beautifully decorated, the altar being banked with ferns interspersed with tall baskets of gladioli. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. E. W. Wilson sang "Because." The organ was played by Mrs. Lou Livingston. The wedding chorus from Lohengrin was used as the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional. "To a Wild Rose" was played softly during the ceremony. The matron of honor, Mrs. Vernon

Smith, wore peach colored chiffon. She carried an arm bouquet of garden flowers and tea roses. Miss Blanche Morgan, as bridesmaid, wore a flowered chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of tea roses and garden flowers. The groomsmen were Kenneth Smith, brother of the groom, and Vernon Smith. The little flower girls, Rose Ada Moye and Carolyn Simmons, were dressed in dainty frocks of pink chiffon and carried old-fashioned corsage bouquets. The bride entered alone. She wore dark blue georgette with tan accessories and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Culberson. She is a graduate of Marshall college, Huntington, W. Va., and last year taught at the Joe Brown Junior High school. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith, of Cleveland, Ohio. He is a graduate of Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill., and is a teacher at Tech High school. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a motor trip. Upon their return they will make their home at 1237 Gordon street.

Miss Maude Schaeffer, A. M. University of North Carolina, has been added to the Washington seminary faculty in the department of modern languages next session.

Miss Pope Plans Interesting Trip.

Miss Lucy Harvey Pope, who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cooper Pope, at their home on West Peachtree street, leaves Thursday evening for Flat Rock, N. C. to visit her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Hull Baldwin, of Jacksonville, Fla., at their summer home. The party will then travel by rail for six days into the heart of northern Rhodesia, named for Cecil Rhodes, the empire builder of England, where they will remain for probably two years, traveling part of the time with headquarters at M'Bois. Miss Pope, formerly of Savannah, has been making her home in New York for the past year with her brother, Clifford Pope, formerly a member of the party sent several years ago to China by the American Museum of Natural History.

SYNOPSIS.

The young Elizabeth is the adopted daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Darcy. When she is 4 years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home promptly by a neighbor.

At 12 Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her Aunt Dolly in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whittly.

After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances.

INSTALLMENT IV. GRIEF AND DESPAIR.

Stephen made his request with some diffidence: "I say, Mark, I want you to come round with me to a wretched private theatrical show tomorrow night. There's a girl—"

He got no further, for Mark had given a whoop of joy: "A girl at last! Excellent, and about time, too! And it's serious, because it always would be serious with you, old sobersides, and you want me to whisper soft nothings to the mother while you do ditto to the girl! Right?"

Extremely annoyed, Stephen tried to explain the position, but Mark Lennox did not bother to listen. "Never mind the camouflage," he kept on saying.

So Mark was present when Elizabeth, furious and disgruntled, flounced on to the stage, quite too angry to attempt to act. Fortunately no acting was necessary. She remembered her lines and was the silent, disagreeable school girl to the life, the one realistic success of the evening, and she received a great ovation.

Mark Lennox congratulated her with real enthusiasm. "The way you got into the skin of that disagreeable, sulky girl!" he exclaimed admiringly, greatly to the amusement of Stephen, who, of course, knew the truth. "Simply amazing! A leading actress could have done no better and you say this is the first time you've ever attempted anything of the sort! Why, you must be a heavenly saint genius! You are born for the footlights and fame and fortune. How I should love to see you in one of my own plays."

It was now the latter part of 1918 and, though Mark had not seen his first running, yet there were many who said it ran because anything ran just then, and also because it was the work of a young officer three times wounded. Still the sanguine Mark, believing himself on the road to fame and fortune, could talk like that to a mere school girl, and especially such a pretty one. Young Lennox always made himself charming to attractive women of all ages "on principle," being as susceptible as a cat.

"Mr. Lennox, do you really mean it?" cried Elizabeth, her eyes shining. She had never thought of being rich and famous before; now she almost decided to become so.

"Rather! Now don't you forget; if ever you decide to take up the thing seriously just let me know, and I'll show you the ropes and see you get a good start. I do hope you'll decide to give the world a chance. One mustn't bottle up genius; it isn't ours, you know; it belongs to the world. So whenever you feel like it, just toddle up and remind me of tonight!"

"I will, O. I will!" promised Elizabeth fervently, and she really meant it at the time. Then a few weeks later some other excitement claimed her; then came the armistice festivities, and she had far too much on hand even to bother with fame and fortune. However, she did not forget. There was always the great career to fall back on when required.

"Well?" she asked Stephen later, for, alone of all present, Stephen had uttered no word of praise for her acting.

"Well what?" He contemplated her gravely from his stalwart inches, but there was a slight twitch at the corner of his mouth.

"O, nothing... how did you think I did the part?"

"As to the manner born," he returned, and there was an unmistakable twinkle in his dark gray eyes. Elizabeth turned away flushing and musing. "Anyway, people who know like that nice Mr. Lennox, say I'm a great actress. So there Mark says that sort of thing to every girl he meets. Fortunately most of them are wise enough to take it with a grain of salt."

"You just wait and see!" warned the young Elizabeth.

If the times of peace seemed a little flat and less hilarious after the times of war, Dolly and Elizabeth continued to extract the utmost out of them. Money did not seem to go as far, but still one had the things just the same. It was sickening that Stephen should pretend the business was not doing well, and that it was difficult to pay her allowance, let alone increase it, but that was just like Stephen, always looking on the dark side of things. The business had brought in thousands a year when she had first married; if it was not bringing in the same now that just showed that Stephen was muddling it, and why should they suffer for his tiresome ways? So they did not suffer.

Elizabeth was 18 now, due to make a good marriage any day; when that happened she would know that what she had done she had done for the best. Before that happened, however, death came and tapped her aunt on the shoulder, and, willy-nilly, she had to obey. She had got a chill at a dance, complained of a pain in the chest, but was not going to lie up for a little thing like that. It would go if one did not think about it, so she did not think about it, and went out in a bitter east wind to a royal matinee, and was dead before any one realized she was ill.

Stephen was abroad on business at the time and could not be communicated with till afterward. Elizabeth was all alone in her grief and despair, wondering what it was her aunt had been trying to tell her at her last, something important, she had murmured, and then had come coma and death.

The doctor and lawyer were "friends indeed," and it was thought later that Elizabeth, sick at heart, learned what her aunt had tried in vain to tell her. Between them they had spent all of Stephen's four thousand pounds, and there was nothing left save debts.

It was rather a terrified Elizabeth that faced these facts. "We are thieves," she kept saying to herself. "I am a thief. I have stolen Stephen's money, spent it. He could put me in prison. Had it been any one but Stephen it would have been bad enough; being Stephen it was unbearable. I would die rather than face him." She told herself in her youthful, exaggerated way. "Die! What will he do to me? O, he will look down his awful nose at me more than ever!" Stephen possessed an extremely handsome, if somewhat severe, type of nose, of the aquiline variety, but then Elizabeth's was distinctly retroussé and lacking in dignity and very far from awful. She thought of how she had bitten his leg, the dire results, and shivered with fright. O, he would be dreadful in a rage... a just rage. Thank heaven he was abroad, and there was time to do something before he found out. She had got a letter from him saying he was sorry to hear of her loss (nothing about this own) that he was returning at once, and would look into matters for her. She did not guess he was almost as non-striking as the kind-such a spoiled kid—brought face to face with realities for the first time in his life, and he hoped he would not be too soft with her. After all, she was only 18; perhaps it was not too late to make something of her even yet. Anyway, he was going to have a shot at it! And he looked for Brighton with this intention.

Meanwhile Elizabeth was telling herself she could never understand him. "I never knew, but I spent the money just the same... why, he's paid for all the things I've got on, and undergarments, and he does hate me so, and O, wouldn't he be mad if he could see them!"

Poor darling Dolly she had never meant or perhaps really understood... and bills did mount up so one never realized. Stephen did not understand Dolly, and how kind and generous she was! He was so different himself. Still the money had been his, really, at least so the lawyer said.

"O, what shall I do, what shall I do?" she asked herself despairingly. There was nothing to do and nowhere to go as far as she could see, and Stephen would be here soon now. It was then the old habit asserted itself and she decided to run away. "I will go to London," she thought. "Stephen will never think of looking for me there. People say it's the best place to be lost in. I'll leave a note to say I've come to my friends in Paris. I'll go straight to Mark Lennox and remind him of his promise."

Crackers Split Two Holiday Games With Pelicans

Locals Snatch Morning Game But Drop Last

Ninth Frame Rally Fails in Final Game; Angley Star of Field Day.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

At the shank-end of a hot, muggy July afternoon Wednesday the Crackers came to bat in their half of the ninth inning trailing New Orleans by the score of 7 to 0.

When that inning was over the Crackers were still trailing, but by the score of 7 to 0.

Pitchers had gone wild. Women had shrieked and screamed. Men had yelled themselves hoarse, eaten peanuts, hollered and all, in their excitement. People had had their tires trod upon. Atlanta had scored five runs in six and had a lead of 10 runs.

Then they started the second game and Climax Bletcher, who started for Atlanta, unstopped a stream of New Orleans base hits with the total damage being two runs, Bletcher damaged the stream for two innings and then it started again in the fourth, washing Climax into the showers and sending Johnny Adcock out in his place.

The home nine worked out of rather precarious position at this point when Frankie Zoeller, by singing, sent a great throw, cut off a run at the plate but New Orleans had added two more to its total.

Meantime Pitcher Underhill, of New Orleans, was having little or no trouble with the Crackers. On several occasions Crackers were scattered about the bases but no runs were available.

Then that ninth inning rolled around. Adcock had retired in the eighth inning and Schack was on the mound for our side. He allowed three hits and two runs in the ninth inning he pitched. Here that incorrigible "if" raises its head. If Schack hadn't allowed those runs, it might be a different story were relating right now.

How It Started.

For things happened when Billy Ithel came to bat and sent a single alighting to the field.

Max West followed with a single that sent Billy galloping to second. And Johnny Jones singled to score Ithel and advance West a base. Tom Angley followed with the fourth straight single of the inning and the score was 7 to 0.

Skipper Niehoff batted for Schack and struck out. Then Underhill started going under. If you could see a horrible, allegorical picture of a man, you would see him.

Walter Gilbert forced Zoeller at second to face Underhill and after the latter had thrown three straight balls Williams came in for New Orleans and sent Jim to first, filling the bases.

Nick Cullop came to bat. Three times before that he had come to bat with two men on base and struck out. But the big slugger was still the idol of that wild raving crowd, sweating mob. It roared for a home run. It begged for a home run. It's possible that some of the fans prayed for a home run. For a home run would have tied the score.

Nick.

Things worked out until the count was three and two on the "Big Fella." Williams sailed the ball over the plate. Nick swung—and fouled it. The next offering was a ball. Nick walked to first and Angley trotted in from third with another run. That made the score 7 to 4, the bases were full.

Billy Rhiel, the instigator of all this, was at bat again. Williams was still wild and Bletcher was still in the fifth run. The bases were still full. A single would tie the game. A double would win the game. Max West was at bat. Colonel Spill, up in the stands, was muttering "Twenty-five dollars for a single. Fifty dollars for a double."

Olson Wins First Game.

Something like 3,500 pleasure-seeking fans pushed their way into the stands for the first game and saw none other than Arthur Olson parade his curves under the home plate.

Pels for nine minutes and allow those same Pels exactly four hits while doing it. Mr. Olson was in rare shape, for once in his life the breaks were in his favor. He pitched himself a very good game of ball.

Old man Dave Danforth—it seems that every New Orleans pitcher is called Dave Danforth—was out to pitch against the home town and lots of people were looking for a tight game, if not a victory for the Crackers because Mr. Danforth is that way when it comes to pitching against Atlanta.

But the first inning was enough to demonstrate to all concerned that Mr. Danforth wasn't himself. Possibly the early hour wasn't exactly to his liking, or his eggs hadn't been cooked properly, but you could easily tell that something was wrong.

There was. Dave lasted in the muggy heat for two and two-thirds innings and that time Atlanta had gotten to him for nine hits and five runs. Then Manager Gilbert elected to send in a hefty looking pitcher by the name of Brown and the Crackers made two runs and six hits off his nose too puzzling delivery during the remainder of the game.

Every inning, with the exception of the fifth and eighth saw the Crackers

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

The Story of the "Cow Country"—Part VIII. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WATER BROUGHT FRESH HARDSHIPS TO THE COWBOY AND HIS CHARGE. WHEN THE WEATHER BECAME SEVERE THE CATTLE WERE DRIVEN TO SHELTERED SPOTS AND THE COWBOYS WENT INTO WINTER QUARTERS NEAR HERDS IN DUGOUTS AND SOD HOVELS. MANY CATTLEMEN DROVE THEIR ANIMALS SOUTH TO TEXAS FOR THE WINTER.

IN THE SPRING CAME THE GREAT "ROUND-UP." THE VARIOUS "OUTFITS" UNITED TO DRIVE THE HERDS FROM THE RANGE INTO ENCLOSURES WHERE THE COWS WITH CALVES WERE SEPARATED, OR "CUT OUT," FROM THE REST OF THE "BUNCH."

THEN FOLLOWED THE BRANDING OF THE CALVES, EACH WITH ITS MOTHER'S MARK, THE RETURNING OF "STRAYS" TO THEIR PROPER OWNERS, AND THE DIVISION OF MAVERICKS (UNMARKED "STRAYS"). IT WAS THE BUSIEST TIME IN THE YEAR FOR THE COWBOY.

THERE WAS USUALLY KEEN RIVALRY BETWEEN THE "OUTFITS" COLLABORATING IN THE ROUND-UP AND IN THEIR LEISURE MOMENTS THE COWPUNCHERS STAGED CONTESTS IN "BRONCHO-BUSTING," SHOOTING AND ROPING.

TOMORROW—COW TOWNS.
